

Christmas Edition

Former Old Timers 25th Anniversary

In commemoration of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fry, Spokane, Wash., a number of their friends gathered at their home Saturday evening.

The principal feature of the evening was a "mock wedding" participated in by Edward Meyers as the bridegroom and Earl Gibson as the bride, who wore a cream-colored gown, trimmed with old Irish lace. The banquet, in colors of yellow and white, was not the traditional one of flowers, but of vegetables, carrots, onions and cauliflower. Mrs. M. E. Hayden was best man and Mrs. Earl Gibson was mother of honor. M. C. Hayden was the minister and the wedding music was played by Mrs. E. Nelson on a mouth organ as the bridal party made its way into the Fry home, as a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Fry and the other

The Battle Against Drought

Man's efforts to control the mighty forces of nature are at best puny and one by one the little forces of nature are being brought to some extent and utilized them to his own advantage by working with instead of against nature.

This general principle is understood and is being used in the war against drought and its resultant evil, soil drifting, in the three prairie provinces by the board of agricultural and engineering experts of the federal and provincial governments and universities which has been set up under the Federal Prairie Farms Rehabilitation Act and which is just completing its first year's work of a five year plan.

Comforting words were uttered by Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, the chairman of the Advisory Board created to administer the act, at a week's conference of the board and its five subsidiary committees in Regina recently when he announced, as the conclusion of one of the committees, that "soil drifting can be cut down to the absolute minimum." This was supplemented later by a report of the water conservation committee that its work will increase the visible supply of water for prairie livestock by 30 or 40 times.

Proceeding on the sound basis enunciated in the opening paragraph, and fortifying its efforts by applying the principle of co-operation, the Advisory Board and its subsidiary committees are on the high road to the goal of a successful success in its efforts to devise and put into effect ways and means to ameliorate the disastrous effects of future droughts to the westward plains, provided the organization is not impeded any nigardism in the provision of the necessary ammunition—money—to bring its work to a successful conclusion.

In this connection it should be pointed out that the Federal government appropriated $750,000 for the first year's work and agreed to vote a million a year for the ensuing four years of the programme. The demands for practical assistance involving monetary outlay are already very substantial. Some of the schemes requested may be practical and sound, but not. Some may be too expensive for the potential benefits and it remains yet to be demonstrated whether a million a year will be sufficient to carry out the gigantic task, even if the Board's efforts are confined to the most economic and most efficient of the numerous projects which have been and are being put forward.

The Board and its committees appear to be tackling their big problem in a workable manner. From the information available to date it would seem that personal and professional jealousies, if any existed, have been relegated to the background and that all the members are working harmoniously with a single eye on the objective to be achieved. This is as it should be and is a matter for general commendation.

One of the factors which will largely determine the success or failure of the plans and projects under way or under consideration is the matter of co-operation—co-operation between the governments involved and their servants, and co-operation between the Board and its committees on the one hand and the farmers in whose interests they are working, on the other.

This, it may be remarked, has been recognized and emphasized in this paper well for the benefit of the Board and its committees. It has been established for projective work and experimental undertakings farmers have set up local organizations to work hand in glove with the scientists, and where this is being done, maximum benefits should be obtainable.

In Saskatchewan assistance has been given by the provincial minister of agriculture that, so far as his government is concerned, there will be co-operation with the Federal organization, in the administration and operations of the new provincial Land Utilization Act which sets up machinery to arrange for evacuation of land units for farming and which perhaps never should have been devoted to grain growing, and for its use for grazing purposes together with plans for improvement of such lands in districts where circumstances appear warranted.

With the impetus of several years of soil drifting and ruined crops behind them as a driving force, farmers are turning to the Board and its committees with open arms. This is demonstrated by the large number of applications received by the water conservation committee. Requests for dams and dugouts and irrigation projects, mostly small individual schemes, but including a scattering of larger community projects have been received by the committee to the number of 4,610 in the three provinces. From Saskatchewan alone the committee has received requests for 840 small schemes and 40 large projects.

A considerable number of small projects have already been completed and the beneficial effect of their existence will be reaped for the first time with the rain-water in the spring of 1936.

References might be made to other branches of work being developed and proceeded with by other committees, such as plans for tree planting, examination of cultural methods, the consideration of moisture conservation under varying soil conditions, but space prohibits more than passing notice at this time. Suffice it to say that all these angles are being carefully studied by the several committees in charge.

The whole scheme has been given the most ambitious attempt yet made to solve the greatest problem confronting agriculture in the west. The best trained minds available are at work on it and there is every reason to believe that with the co-operation already referred to a substantial measure of success will be achieved.

Gills Still Arriving

Julius presents still continue to reach the King and Queen of Buckingham Palace. The latest to arrive, reports the News of the World, is a magnificent silver shield. More Oats And Barley

Canada's wheat production for 1935 is now placed at 273,971,000 bushels or two millions below the 1934 figure. Oats have yielded 416,569,000 bushels or about thirty per cent. above 1934. Barley made a gain of 38 per cent. amounting to 57,512,000 bushels.

Bully Broken Up

Railway Problems

Dr. Tory Tells How Mistakes Have Been Made

The taking over of railroads and not taking over the land settlement schemes which had paralleled them was one mistake in Canada's handling of the railway problem, Dr. H. M. Tory, Canadian educationist and scientist, told the Canadian Club in Vancouver.

"Had we spent half the money we have spent on railways deficits in promoting national land settlement schemes, by new the railways would have been self-supporting," he said. Dr. Tory defended the building of railways, but regretted the way it was done in many instances, though he still believed they were one of the country's greatest assets.

The wrong was in the way it was done," he said. "We allowed rail-road builders, with practically no study of the country requirements, to build where they thought they could reap the richest harvest for themselves."

"The result is that there are railways where they are not needed and places that want roads have not got them."

The second difficulty is, when we started our building, we paralleled our roads with land settlement schemes, so that the roads became pioneers of settlement. Then when we found ourselves in deep water we took over the roads and abandoned the land settlement plan."

Radium For Ontario Government

Receive Delivery Of Three And A Half Curies Of Great Bear Lake Product

Delivery of three and a half grams of radium, produced in the Great Bear Lake, has been received by the Ontario government for use in Toronto General Hospital cancer clinic, Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, minister of health, announced recently.

The radium replaces the same quantity the government has been sending from New York. The price paid for the Canadian element was $12,800 a gram.

In March, 1934, the previous government ordered a "New York" firm four grams of radium for the Toronto hospital "bomb." At the end of the first year the government expected to obtain a half-ton of radium. Since last March the hospital continued to need three and a half grams of radium, but next March that amount will be returned to New York and replaced by the Canadian supply.

Ambrose Small Case

Ontario Government To Reopen Investigation

The Ontario government will reopen investigation into the disappearance of Ambrose J. Small, Toronto theatre manager, in 1935. It was learned recently. Attorney-General Roebuck, it was reported, communicated from Ottawa with Patrick Sullivan, investigator acting on behalf of the Small family, and told him Senior Solicitor W. B. Common would interview him and the Misses Small to ascertain what evidence they have.

Sullivan declared his evidence will throw light on several angles of the case, and will include a report to the Misses Small by friends of Mr. Small, indicating Small's disappearance was expected in some quarters.

Drove Of Caribou

Held Up Motorist On Trans-Canada Highway Near Rennie, Manitoba

To be held up by a big drove of caribou crossing the Trans-Canada highway, near Rennie, was the experience of a motorist going to Kenora from Winnipeg. He estimated there were about two hundred and fifty animals in the herd on their way south. They appeared to be in first class condition.

Caribou used to be fairly numerous in the district 30 or 40 years ago, but in this case only a occasional one has been met with.

Food For Thought

Germany Building Up War Machine Greater Than Kaiser's

Calling from Berlin, Frederick T. Birchall, English-born correspondent of the New York Times, and ablet of journalistic observers in Europe, writes of the "astonishment among all classes of the population" caused by the latest act of the German Government. The act, briefly, summed up in the colors all classes of 1913 and 1916.

Watching Mussolini in Ethiopia, the world may well give a thought to this.

For what it means, as Birchall points out, is that Germany's male population is being wrought into a huge military machine; a war machine greater than anything ever possessed by the Kaiser.

Successfully, as they teach years of usefulness, the millions of the Reich are to be catalogued and classified for such purposes as the state may determine. In addition to the actual standing army and reserve, there will exist for Germany in the future another army of millions which on the outbreak of war or in any other emergency can become a military reality. It is the beginning of that system of a nation in arms upon which Nazi ideology dwells so much.

This, seventeen years after the Armistice, is a devastating thing. Just recently we had France, the greatest military nation in the world, proclaim that her army now is inferior to that of Germany; and meanwhile Germany goes on building a mighty air force, fashioning warships and submarines.

In Ethiopia are the legions of Italy. In the East exists the new threat of a mighty Japanese army carved out of North China. But these things, arresting as they are, and perilous, pale before what goes on today beyond the Rhine.

New Zealand Government Makes Move To Restore Wages

New Zealand's Labor government was sworn into office. Prime Minister Michael J. Savage said its first task would be to improve the lot of the unemployed. The next move would be to restore the wage levels prevailing in industry and the civil service before economy cuts were introduced by the National government in 1931.

The prime minister said he intended to get in touch with those who control the Dominion's financial system, including the reserve bank, in order to make available the country's real resources for national development.

"I shall have to find the resources," he declared. "We shall not follow the old idea of continuously borrowing abroad and adding to the public debt."

W. H. T. Armstrong, minister of labor, said the cabinet intended to introduce a statutory minimum wage for both men and women, leaving an arbitration court to determine rates above the level.

Women Flyers

Every Bit As Capable As Men, Says R.C. Instructor

Harold Wilson, of the Aero Club of British Columbia, rated one of Canada's leading instructors, differs with an opinion attributed to Kenneth Main, Toronto flying club instructor, that women make poor aeroplane pilots.

"Maybe eastern girls are different but we have always found that, other things being equal, women who take up flying for sport are every bit as capable as the men," Mr. Wilson said.

"It must be borne in mind, however, that the industry offers little future at present for lady pilots other than for their own satisfaction. The instructor said women suffer because of poor judgment of distance and speed."

Zayder Zee Renamed

Mighty Dyke Educating Memory Of

The Zayder Zee has almost gone, and it has already changed its name. It is now the Yael Meer, and the mighty dyke and the windmills are effacing the memory of the old inland sea of Holland.

Much has still to be done before the Zee is a mere outlet for the rivers that flowed into it, controlled by huge sluices, but already an area of five years ago, and the windmills has been sufficiently cleared to grow crops and support two villages built on it.

All you have to do to convince yourself that women are prettier now is to look at an old picture of a woman with her hair wound in a knot.

Employment Increases

But Cost Of Relief Seems To Be Unchanged

Employment in Canada has reached the highest level since December, 1930, but relief costs have not moved correspondingly downward and there are still more than 1,000,000 Canadians in receipt of direct unemployment relief, according to an estimate of current trends released by the Canadian welfare council.

Extensive public works have contributed to the favorable employment trend in recent months, the welfare council asserts, while there has been stimulation activity in private business.

From the 1925 peak of 1,230,000 persons on direct relief last February, the number decreased to 1,100,000 estimated in the late autumn report received by the council from relief departments and social agencies in the nine provinces. This compares with 1,150,000 estimated at this time last year, a drop of approximately 50,000.

An attempted comparison of these figures must, however, take into account, the council said, the fact that some 90,000 persons on relief last year in the drought areas of Saskatchewan have been removed from relief lists.

Consequently "it seems possible that there has been a more disturbing enlargement of the socially dependent in the urban and industrial centres within recent months than a plain glance would indicate. This, together with mounting costs, suggests that the unemployment and unemployment relief problem has not yet been put but rather increased in seriousness in the past 12 months. The wider introduction of cash relief in many centres, without prior reorganization or adequate investigation and supervision services, appears to have added to the costs and the numbers on relief in certain areas."

Italy's Wheat Imports

A few years ago Italy was a very large importer of wheat. In 1923, for instance, Canada alone exported to her 10 million bushels. During the past few years Italy has imported but little wheat. Italy's officials tell us this is because other countries are no longer willing to purchase Italian goods and products—therefore Italy cannot secure funds with which to purchase Canadian and other grains.

It is hoped that economic sanity will soon return to the world and that goods, commodities and wheat will be exchanged once more between the nations in generous volume.
